Heidi Hassenfeld

From sing-a-longs to culinary classes, Heidi Hassenfeld helps engage residents at Abe's Garden.

Hassenfeld's father had dementia for 13 years, and she became his primary caregiver when her mother passed away unexpectedly. As a volunteer with the organization since its opening, she aims to share experiences her late father never had with people experiencing cognitive changes.

"After moving my dad to Nashville, I quickly realized there was a huge gap in our healthcare system related to those who understand individuals with dementia and the needs of the families involved," said Hassenfeld. "I wanted to contribute to a place I wish existed when my dad was alive."

Hassenfeld, a physical therapist, was drawn to Abe's Garden because it is dedicated to serving people with dementia, applies best practices from research while working with a major medical center, and continually educates its staff and evolves its programming.

She has supported the organization's music club and culinary club – where residents pick fresh herbs from the gardens to use in meals – and helped staff launch several internal communication groups such as a resident newspaper team, storytelling group, and "good news" club.

"It's such an uplifting experience to see the interactions," said Hassenfeld. "I am very grateful that Abe's Garden exists and provides people with memory loss and their families an environment that enriches their lives."

Proud and Loving Son Shares His Passion for Abe's Garden

My mom sat in her house for three years, under what we thought was our great care, before coming to Abe's Garden. Abe's gave her new gifts. Abe's gave her activities. Abe's gave her the sound of music and other people. If she wanted it, Abe's gave her history classes, news, gardening, cooking, arts and more. Abe's gave her a safety zone and I never doubted her safety for a minute.

Most of all, Abe's gave her love.

Show me another "home" for mom where the chef is as passionate about her well-being as anyone else. I never expected that anywhere. We became family with Abe's, from the reception staff, to the many nurses and employees caring for mom, to some of the administrative support staff, and the prince of a man preparing her meals. There are people there I love and I hope, now that our journey is complete, that I never forget or get out of touch with.

My mom just passed and we are very sad. The entire staff stepped up to unbelievable levels of support in our final days.

It's not the facilities you see, which are beautiful, it's the people you don't even know that will help make your loved one's journey more complete.

WHAT WE DO

Abe's Garden seeks to establish a model of residential and day programs for those with Alzheimer's disease. The goal is to transform care for those with Alzheimer's and related dementias throughout the United States by providing an unprecedented level of care for individuals diagnosed with these disorders. Equally important, it is a site of research and teaching, setting a new standard for other programs and residential communities devoted to caring for our nation's rapidly expanding senior population.
